

Museum of the Convent of San Esteban

Between 1255 and 1256 Dominicans established on the site now occupied by the current convent, in which then resided the parish of San Esteban. The old medieval buildings were renovated in the XVI century; this century and part of the earlier meant the heyday of the institution.

Buildings

Convent of San Esteban: It is a monastery of the Dominican order. Its construction was carried out between the XVI and XVII centuries. It is of Gothic style, but its decor is Plateresque and Baroque. The church has a Latin cross floor, with only one nave, in whose inside, its Baroque altarpiece, has Salomonic columns, work by Jose de Churriguera, highlights. The scene of the martyrdom of San Esteban, work by Claudio Coello, is represented on the main retablo. The building has three cloisters; the most interesting is of the Kings.
