Monastery Church of Santiago

The hermit monk San Genadio, who later became Bishop of Astorga, founded this monastery, built between 909 and 916. The church is of a later date. It was consecrated in 1105.

In 1968 the reconstruction of the temple began and the foundations of the monastery, occupying a wide area, were unearthed in 1985.

The building, admirably well-preserved despite its age, from the outside offers a harmonious image with well-proportioned sections.
