

Hermitage of San Pantaleon

Late 12th or early 13th-century shrine consecrated in 1207 with a single semicircular apse and part of the nave covered by a dome. It has a bell cote over a triumphal entrance arch leading to the chancel.

The well-kept outside ornamentation of the windows and the facade with a huge carved figure of Atlas and an enormous chevron that frame and protect the rest of the columns and archivolts is of great beauty.
