

Castle of Laguna de Negrillos

It is one of the fortress that belonged to the Conde Luna, with a characteristic structural style which features for a square floor and use of masonry , except in the corners, whose arris are built in ashlar stone. The keep tower and the crenellated walls are preserved.

It was arisen in the XVIII century, although what you can seen today is the reconstruction carried out in the XV century by Don Diego Fernández de Quiñones and Doña María de Toledo.
