

Mill of Los Señores

Located on the banks of the Eresma river in the Zamarramala neighborhood of Segovia, near the Fuencisla Sanctuary, is the Molino de los Señores, a construction that occupies the site of the old disappeared medieval mill mentioned in a document dated 1136 existing in the archive of the Cathedral, which refers to its historical importance as the first civil building for industrial use in Segovia. Located in an environment of high natural value, the mill's architectural or historical interest is combined with the landscape aspect that the existence of the mill itself has helped to preserve. Lost its function, it has currently undergone a process of rehabilitation.
