

Siega Verde

Get to know this spectacular open-air museum opened 20,000 years ago. Located in the cross-border area west of Salamanca, in the region of Ciudad Rodrigo, and on the banks of the Águeda River, Siega Verde is one of the most impressive rock art sites in the Iberian Peninsula and probably in all of Europe, declared a World Heritage Site. by UNESCO. Discover the unique creations that the Solutrean and Magdalenian cultures left carved in the rock of the natural ford of the river during their hunting days in the area. Delicate figures of horses, bulls, deer, bison, goats, reindeer or rhinoceros, alone or recreating scenes, perfectly outlined for posterity with the precision of a craftsman that surprise today for their realism, detail and accuracy. Explore this beautiful place in search of the 17 groups in which you can see up to 645 carvings and schematic signs carved on the natural stone panels that the Upper Paleolithic artists used as a canvas and that show us what the varied and surprising fauna was like. populated the plateau during the last ice age. Also enjoy dramatized visits to the site or even a fun escape room in the middle of nature. Are you going to miss it?
