

Posada del Pinar

Posada Real ****

It is made up of a series of buildings dating from between the 17th and early 20th centuries, which include a chapel used for worship by the former owners. The Inn has twenty-one rooms, and they have all been designed to create a sensation of light and space, and have been furnished with antiques.

The Inn is set in grounds covering some 130 hectares, and is part of the area known as Tierra de Pinares, characterised, as its name in Spanish indicates, by lush pine forests as well as by gently rolling plains. Opposite the porch there are three terraced lawns originally designed in the early 20th century in keeping with the romantic tradition of landscaped gardens.
