

Soledad González Cultural Center

This building is a representative palace of the bourgeoisie of the nine hundred, ordered to be built by the landowner and senator Felipe González in 1904. The property is divided into three floors plus basement and roof terrace. Its bourgeois halls are decorated with paintings of landscapes or oriental scenes, geometric and floral motifs on the ceilings, and stained glass, ironwork and tiles stand out. Currently this building is intended for cultural uses, housing on its ground floor the Municipal Public Library.
