

Interpretation Center of the Aqueduct

A modern multimedia and interactive area. The water will lead you through more than 15 kilometres of length of the best preserved Roman aqueduct in the world, discovering more than 2.000 years of history of this monument declared World Heritage.

Buildings

Real Casa of the Moneda: The building was built between 1583 and 1586 by the real architect of Felipe II Juan de Herrera with the foundation and sponsored by the monarch himself. It was extended in the XVIII century by Carlos III under the direction of the engineer Juan Rodríguez and Gutierrez, and was considered one of the oldest industrial-type buildings in Europe. The industrial ensemble was abandoned in the XIX century and it became again a flour factory, then, it got again a ruinous state and, already in the XI century, it has been restored, housing a museum and the Centro de Interpretación del Acueducto.
