

Museum of Sotoscueva

It provides a large explanation of the municipality and its councils, the lives of the people of Sotoscueva with their customs and traditions, and also about its rich rural and religious architecture.

It has a large recreation area overlooking the valley and the cliffs of the limestone hills, hallmark of Sotoscueva, where is the ethnographic part, outdoors, consisting of three small houses and a coal cellar, representing the main crafts of the inhabitants of these places.
