

Oña

At a strategic point between the plateau and the Cantabrian Mountains, next to the gorge that the Oca River has created before pouring its waters into the Ebro, stands the beautiful Burgos town of Oña.

Center of civil and religious power thanks to the great influence of the monastery of San Salvador throughout the area, Oña treasures a rich heritage in its quiet streets and squares with a medieval layout and atmosphere. The Benedictine Gardens of the monastery are the ideal place to enjoy nature and discover places such as the old fish farms that the monks exploited.

In the kitchen you can't miss rice pudding, meat or mushrooms in season.

Much to discover!
