

Castle of Cuellar

The Castle was declared next to the walls, National Artistic Monument in 1931.

It appears documented already in the year 1306, although the oldest part is from the XII century. In 1464, when Enrique IV was king, he gave the town of Cuéllar and the castle to D. Beltrán de la Cueva, Duke of Alburquerque.

It has a rectangular plan with four towers at the corners, three of them circular.

Currently houses a secondary school.

Theatrical visits are organized.
