Castle of Torrelobaton o de los Comuneros

Rock castle flanked by two wolves chained to the lock of the entrance gate, known as the castle of the Wolf Tower, as indicated by the village's coat of arms and that of the castle itself.

Built with large stones, it has very thick walls. The pointed arches indicate it must have been built in the 13th century, undergoing reforms in the 15th century. There is a square courtyard, with three cubes in one of the angles and a projecting cubic turret in another. The ground floor of the tower of homage is he oldest part of the castle. The castle was attacked in 1521, during the Comunidades war, by Juan Padilla.
