

Church of the Pasion

The church of la Pasion is the headquarters of the Penitential Brotherhood of the Holy Passion of Christ since the XVI century, and houses the Museum of Painting of the city of Valladolid working as municipal hall for temporary exhibitions. It consists of a single nave, whose construction began in the XVI century, but was rebuilt in the XVII century. Its façade of mixing style between Baroque and churrigueresque stands out; its decoration was made by Felipe Berrojo. This church was closed to worship in the XIX century.
