

Hospital of the Purisima Concepcion

Fundado por María de Aragón, esposa de Juan II de Castilla, en 1443, conserva de su primitivo estado el doble pórtico de cantería, renacentista, con los escudos reales en columnas y antepechos.

The chapel is dedicated to Santo Cristo de las Injurias and was restored in 1721; the courtyard is 16th century with cylindrical stone columns and they support a wooden gallery. The wooden staircase leading to the upper gallery, the ceiling's churrigueresque decoration and the small balcony at the top of the stairs are worth seeing.
