

Church of San Lorenzo

This church has a Latin cross ground plan with a single nave and a transept plus one apse and a prismatic dome.

It must have had two fronts, one in the gable end and the other in the south wall. There are beam-ends around the top of the presbytery, apse and wall. There are numerous animal and human heads and vegetal motifs. The whole church, except the transept and the apse, is covered by a pointed barrel vault.
