

Parish Church of Santa Maria del Castillo

This ashlar church has three naves separated by octagonal pillars and a barrel vault, plus a six-body Romanesque tower.

The main altarpiece, dating from the second quarter of the 16th century, was built by pupils of Juan Valmaseda. The church contains 16th-century board paintings by the master Calzada, and an altarpiece with paintings by Juan de Villoldo and a Last Judgement by Diego de Valentín Díaz.
