

Church of Carraciolo del Pinar

It is originated in the XII century in a so-called monastery of Carraciolo del Pinar, dependent of the Monasterio de Dueñas (Palencia). It is an example of Romanesque Mudejar architecture of the Segovia province. Its header highlights, which is a kind of transept through two beautiful chapels to each side of a straight section with doors of six threads, and groin vaults and walls decorated with blind arches.
