Hermitage of Nuestra Señora de la Bienvenida

Building of the century XVII (1610-11), although the holder image of the chapel is a Gothic work, so, apparently, a previous building existed in this place. It is a construction of masonry, except the use of ashlar in enclosures and openings. It has a single nave ground plan, more the main Chapel, square floor, which is somewhat narrower. The nave is covered on barrel vault with lunettes, reinforced by transverse arches on attached pilasters.
