

Church of San Pedro

Built by the stonemasons Juan García and Juan Pérez, with three naves of equal height and a large dome resting on scallops in the transept. The scallops show the evangelical attributes in the way of Baroque relieves, under a beautiful dome.

Outside, an octagonal dome resting on sturdy buttresses. Both the friezes and the buttresses are made of brick. The walls are decorated with patterns of squares and diagonal lines. The walls flanking the windows are decorated with zigzagging flower designs. reminiscent of the Mudéjar style.

Inside, three harmonious altarpieces. The most interesting figures, set between the fluted columns, are the sculpture of Saint Peter and the 18th-century Pieta.
