Church of San Miguel Arcangel

The portal is sheltered under an arch surmounted by a curious balustrade, and the tower, located as chevet, is topped with a small steeple. Great small windows look out onto the façade and the cemetery with its trees makes an unusual image.

The foundation stone was put in the chancel in 1653, finishing the main part of the temple ten years later. In the interior, the organ built by Manuel Pascual in 1753, and the chapel of La Dolorosa, with a baroque altarpiece of 1744, stand out.
