

Días de Luna

Posada Real ***

The building that now houses the centre was formerly the Sena de Luna school, built in 1914, with masonry walls and slabs of hewn stone. After a careful rehabilitation, all recoverable elements have been kept, and those that were originally concealed have been brought to light and enhanced.

It was intended to make a 'healthy building', using traditional materials such as lime plait on the walls and oil on the wood. The house is located in spendig surroundings, in the heart of the western Leonese mountains, and within the Nature area of the Valley of Babia y Luna.
