

El Rincón de Babia

Posada Real ****

A large house which has been restored keeping the characteristics of typical Babian architecture, known as 'de patín'. The establishment consists of two houses: the main body houses the rooms and the common areas and in the annex, 'El Calecho', there is an independent and cosy room. Care has been taken with decoration right down to the last detail: decorated light switches, a trough for keeping parlour games, or bogadoiro converted into a display case.

It known since the 10th century as a resting place for the Kings of León. It is a place with great natural beauty, with landscapes still intact. It is the ideal starting point to discover the Somiedo Nature Park, in neighbouring Asturias.
